

Government SERVICES

Enhancing Quality of Life
for Area Citizens

Government services in the Chattanooga area are provided by the City of Chattanooga, Hamilton County, and local township governments.

The Chattanooga mayor and nine elected city council members administrate all government programs and services for the city. Hamilton County includes the ten municipalities of Chattanooga, Collegedale, East Ridge, Lakesite, Lookout Mountain, Red Bank, Ridgeside, Signal Mountain, Soddy-Daisy, and Walden. Along with the mayor of Hamilton County, nine elected county commissioners oversee county legislation and policy.

The city provides many public amenities for residents to enjoy. The Chattanooga Public Library offers four locations, leading journal and reference sources, and a high-tech learning center in the downtown location's fourth floor. Supported by Chattanooga's fiber optic network, the fourth floor features tabletop 3D printers, a laser cutter, and various patron-led classes. The fourth floor has been a model for other public libraries nationally, including the landmark New York Public Library on Fifth Avenue.

Another popular amenity provided by the city is the maintenance of outdoor and recreational areas. With 106 sites throughout Chattanooga, the city services more than 800 acres, 35 miles of greenways and trails, 53 tennis courts, 41 playgrounds, 20 swing sets, eight outdoor fitness zones, six youth athletic association facilities, three dog parks, and two golf courses.

Safety and security services are provided by the Chattanooga Fire Department, the Chattanooga and Hamilton County police departments, and local townships' fire and police organizations. The Chattanooga Fire Department recently earned Insurance Services Office's highest protection rating, which rates the ability of fire departments nationwide to respond to and contain structure fires; Chattanooga is one of three cities in Tennessee to earn this Class 1 rating. The Chattanooga Police Department is officially accredited by the Commission on Accreditation for Law Enforcement Agencies. Many officers have advanced degrees, certifications, military experience, and other forms of specialized training.

The Chattanooga Department of Transportation aims to provide viable means of transportation in all forms. The department works closely with CARTA (Chattanooga Area Regional Transportation Authority), the Chattanooga Airport, Public Works department, and the Transportation Planning Organization to provide the best comprehensive transportation systems.

The Chattanooga Department of Public Works oversees the design, construction, and maintenance of the city's infrastructure, including sewer and storm water systems, waste management, and public spaces. Their waste and recycling systems make greener and more convenient disposal options possible, including brush pickup on demand, household hazardous waste disposal, curbside pickup, and various recycling centers. Township governments provide services to their residents in place of or in addition to that offered by the city or county.

Neighboring Bradley County includes the city of Cleveland and city of Charleston. Cleveland is governed by a mayor, city council, and city manager, while Charleston operates under a commission form of government with a mayor and two commissioners.
